

Administrator can access the Database Server and make any changes (add, edit, delete) to the location nodes.

The User's Device can then connect to the Database Server and download the database file.

The Application will then use the database file and in conjunction with the user's location from the network or gps satellite to retrieve/display information to the user.